1. Successful Binary Options Trading Strategy

Successful binary options traders approach the market with 3 key tools: great binary options strategies, a money management strategy and the use of automated binary software – the so called systems or robots.

These tools are absolute necessities for any trader. This book will explain the basic of these three binary options strategies, and provide you with links to all relevant fields. It is the perfect starting point for you to create your own binary options strategy.

1. Trading Strategy

Binary options are short term investments. Therefore, timing is just as important to your success as correctly predicting the direction of the market. Your strategies for trading should clearly define the signal you want to trade, and when you want to enter the market when the signal occurs. Based on technical analysis, there are a number of possibilities:

- Trading the breakout: You can trade the market breaking out of a continuation or a reversal pattern. More accurately, you have to define whether you will invest in a binary option in anticipation of the breakout, in reaction to the breakout, or in reaction to the pullback. Which option you chose depends entirely on your preferences.

- Trading trend lines: Trend lines can be traded the same way as support and resistance levels. You can invest in the impending turnaround when a trend approaches a trend line, and you can invest the price breaking through a trend line.
- Trading percentage retracements: In a trend, retracements usually end at a percentage of 40 to 60 percent of the prior advance. Investing in a turnaround in price direction around these levels of a retracement can provide you with good trading opportunities.
- Trading the gap: Sometimes prices take a big jump in either direction. The created gap is likely to close again. You can invest in the closing of the gap with a binary option.
- Trading technical indicators: Technical indicators can provide you with great insight to what the market is doing. Applied the right way, technical indicators can also generate signals you can trade with binary options.
- Trading candlestick formations: Candlestick formation can provide you with short term indications about future price movements. By being able to recognize and interpret candlestick formations, you can find many attractive trading opportunities.

NOTE: Investors should open an account with legit and safe binary broker in order to trade binary options and to apply those strategies.

2. Money Management Strategy

Without a good money management even the best trading binary options strategy will ruin you eventually. In binary options, you will inevitably lose some trades. Therefore, the main goal of your trading approach cannot be to win all trades, but to win enough trades to end up with a net profit in the end. Money management is the tool that will help you achieve that.

Good money management consists of a number of rules, most importantly that you should only invest a fixed small percentage of your overall capital in one trade. This percentage should not be higher than 5 percent.

3. Trading With Automated Binary Options Systems

Many binary options strategies depend on technical analysis where you look for certain patterns in the way the price of an asset moves, and try to make predictions about future price movements based on these patterns.

Today there are many tools and features that can make this process much easier. Those are the binary options robots – an automated trading software which can place trades based on the MOST profitable opportunities on the financial markets. Those systems can analyze a huge amount of financial data and can be 95% accurate in their predictions.

The percentage of successful trades, however, will vary greatly, depending on which trader applies a certain strategy. If you like to be right, you should choose a Binary Options Strategy that will guarantee you a high winning percentage, even if the return per trade is not as much as with a more risky strategy.

This strategy will provide every trader with a greater insight to how the market works. ## Candlestick Strategy

A candlestick chart is used to visualize the price movement of an asset. It can compress all the information of a given time period into one candlestick. This enables you to get all the important information you need quicker than with a regular price chart.

Each candlestick represents the price movement of a certain time interval from a few seconds to days, and consists of a body and a wick. The body represents the opening and closing price of the asset in the given time period. If the closing price is higher than the opening price, the body color is white and the candlestick is classified as bullish. If the closing price is lower than the opening price, the body color is black and the candlestick is bearish.

Double Up Strategy

This strategy does not require any chart study or analysis and is very easy to understand and implement. It is used when a trader is in a strong position and the investment is looking very good to make profit. Using this strategy the traders can double up their initial invested amount while the parameters will stay the same as when the original investment was made.

There are some downsides of this strategy. It is useless if you losing or you are not in a very strong position. This is also important to understand that the double up strategy is basically a feature and all the binary options brokers do not offer it. Check the safe brokers who offer it below.

High / Low Options

This binary options type can generate the highest winning percentage. These options require you to predict whether the market will rise or fall over a given period of time. You will win your binary option if the market has moved by only one pip in the right direction. Here are a few other strategies you can use:

- Moving Average Crossovers - For this strategy, simply use two moving averages: One with a higher number of periods and one with a lower number of periods. The moving average with the lower number of periods will follow market movements more closely, while the moving average with the higher number of periods will be slower to react.

- Swing Trading - In a trend, swing traders try to benefit from each movement from high to low and vice versa. When you recognize a weakening swing, invest in a High/Low option in the opposite direction of the swing. Use a medium to long expiration time of around 5 periods. The movement should have enough time to develop.
- Automated Trading – Many investors choose this strategy for trading High/Low Options. The advanced technology and algorithms used by the robots to analyze the market trends cannot be replaced by any trading expert no matter of his knowledge or professional skills.

Boundary Options

Boundary options are with a higher payout than High/Low options that do not require you to predict the future market direction exactly. They take away the hardest part of trading while rewarding traders with a higher payout. You can win your option by simply predicting that the market will move far enough in either direction. To win, you only have to estimate how far the market can move over a given period of time.

>> Check This 100% FREE Automated Solution <<

To know how far the market can move, you can use The Average True Range. The ATR calculates how far the market has moved with each single period in the recent past. By multiplying the ATR's value with the number of periods until your boundary option will expire, you get the maximum market movement in this time.
